

BRENT DOUGLAS

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

As Chief Executive Officer of Magellan Executive Partners, Brent is passionate about helping companies unlock the secrets to organizational and leadership growth. With over 30 years of experience as an executive coach, strategist, and advisor, Brent has a proven track record of driving business performance and growth. His leadership and vision consistently enable businesses to overcome challenges and thrive in dynamic markets.

Brent began his career as an electrical design engineer, working on innovative technologies across industries including computer equipment, medical, industrial, and government sectors. He later transitioned into prominent leadership roles, serving as COO for two technology companies and Vice President of Operations for a global construction products company before joining Magellan.

In addition to his leadership experience, Brent is the co-author of Old Fashioned Leadership: Lessons from the Patio, a book that offers valuable insights on leadership, drawing on timeless principles and practical wisdom. His approach combines his deep technical background as an electrical engineer with his extensive leadership experience to help companies and leaders convert strategic vision into actionable plans that drive sustainable growth.

Brent holds a Master's Degree in Business Administration with special distinction from Oklahoma City University, a Master's Degree in Electrical Engineering from Oklahoma State University, and a Bachelor's Degree in Electrical Engineering from the University of Oklahoma. He is also the holder of five patents.

Brent resides in Edmond, Oklahoma, with his wife and two sons.
